FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

'CIO Finance Summit' 2008 Announces Media Partner, Bank Info Security

June 26, 2008- The 'CIO Finance Summit', the leading business summit for professionals in the financial services industry, welcomes Bank Info Security as a media partner. As much of the foundation of the financial services is based on a commitment to security, the leading team committed to providing information on security regulations, Bank Info Security, is a great fit as a media partner for the 2008 'CIO Finance Summit'. The summit will kick off the 22nd-25th of September at the Four Seasons Resort in Scottsdale, AZ.

Bank Info Security was created as a reference tool and strongly believes that education on security issues reinforces the need for maintaining customer confidentiality and integrity, thus improving the long term security posture of an organization. Senior management level bankers, IT professionals and banking personnel began to use Bank Info Security as a dynamic information portal to learn about banking regulations, industry-news, events and opinions.

Glenn Willis, EVP, 'CIO Finance Summit' officially welcomed the participation of Bank Info Security, saying, "As security continues to be of utmost importance to many of the delegates and participants in the summit, we are delighted to bring a qualified partner such as Bank Info Security on board in order to provide an excellent resource and reference website to our attendees."

The 'CIO Finance Summit' is designed to gather the top professionals in financial services and join them in effort to promote greater business value through; peer-on-peer discussions, business meetings, interactive workshops, and panel discussions. Many of the delegates attending specialize in the security sector of the industry including, Gabrielle Vitale, CISO, American Express, and Mark Clancy, EVP IT Risk Technology, Citigroup. Furthering the summit's focus on security concerns will be agenda highlights including, a CIO Panel Discussion, moderated by Burton Analyst, Trent Henry, on 'Guaranteeing Security and Consumer Protection.'
