LEADING BUSINESS TECHNOLOGY SUMMIT FOR INSURANCE EXECUTIVES ANNOUNCES LATEST VIP DELEGATES

September 1, 2009 – The CIO Insurance Summit – the leading business technology summit that brings together C-level executives, solution providers and analyst thought leaders from the insurance industry - is pleased to announce new VIP delegate attendees. Newly confirmed CIO Insurance Summit delegates include Akhil Tripathi, SVP & CIO, Harleysville Insurance, Piyush Singh, SVP & CIO, Great American Insurance Group, and Murshid Khan, SVP & CIO, Stewart. The CIO Insurance Summit will be held at the Four Seasons Resort in Scottsdale, Ariz.

“The CIO Insurance Summit is so much more than a technology conference; it’s a dynamic event packed with one-on-one meetings, workshops and case study presentations. Open dialogue is supported throughout the event in order to maximize idea-sharing and ensure productivity. The delegates at the CIO Insurance summit are the top IT end-users in the insurance industry and we’re pleased to welcome the new VIP delegates. As innovative technology leaders, these individuals have the information that industry executives need to know in order to strategically position their organizations,” said Glenn Willis, EVP, CIO Insurance Summit.

Attending delegates will be provided a forum to discuss important issues affecting the insurance industry including data security, storage, fraud protection, asset management and more. These CIOs will determine agenda content, take part in the panel discussions and host one-on-one meetings with technology solution providers.

Akhil Tripathi, who directs Harleysville Insurance’s on-going information technology strategy, integration and development efforts, will present a featured case study "IT Enabled Business Transformation - Underwriting and Risk Selection in P&C Industry" at the event.
