Senior Technology Leaders Invited to Present at 2011 Technology Event

December 7, 2010 – The CIO Summit team announced today that it is looking for senior IT executives to speak at the upcoming technology event, March 13-16, 2011.

The CIO Summit brings together technology thought leaders to network and attend educational sessions led by and with topics determined by their CIO peers. The event is an opportunity to make new business contacts, discuss the latest technology topics and trends, and learn about innovative technology solutions.

Qualified speakers at the CIO Summit must be senior-level technology executives, such as a CIO, CTO, EVP or SVP, representing a Fortune 500 organization or have executive-level experience with a direct IT focus. Speakers have the opportunity to present a case study, take part in a panel discussion or lead a think-tank session. Content themes at this year's event include making innovation real, raising the ROI of IT, and expanding business impact.

A few of the speakers who have already signed on to participate in the CIO Summit:

- David Downing, COO & SVP, Technology and Operations, First National Bank of Nebraska
- Haden Land, VP & CTO, Lockheed Martin IS&GS
- Robert Strickland, President, Strickland Consulting LLC

If you are interested in speaking at the CIO Summit, fill out the speaker registration form at http://www.ciosummit.us/callforspeakers/.
