CIO Cloud Summit Partners with Virtualization Review

December 16, 2010 – The CIO Cloud Summit team announced today that it has formed a strategic partnership with Virtualization Review, an online media outlet, bi-monthly magazine and independent guide to the latest technology products, vendors and issues.

The CIO Cloud Summit, May 22-25, 2011, will bring together CIOs and IT executives who are currently planning, implementing or want to optimize cloud computing projects at their organizations. The technology event's agenda is designed to encourage idea sharing and in-depth conversation among the event's attendees, and currently features networking breaks, think tank sessions, open forums and analyst Q&A sessions.

Virtualization Review, owned and operated by 1105 Media, reaches 40,000 senior-level IT management and C-suite executives in large U.S. organizations. The publication and online media outlet includes information on server, application, PC and desktop virtualization as well as virtualization management and infrastructure. Other resources on the site include a buyer's guide, product reviews, webcasts, and more.

"Virtualization Review is full of the in-depth information that enterprise technology executives need to get and stay ahead of the technology curve. I am excited to be partnering with Virtualization Review for the upcoming event and look forward to sharing their resources with our event attendees," said Glenn Willis, Event Director, CDM Media.

CIOs and IT executives, as the subject matter experts, are invited to present the agenda sessions at the CIO Cloud Summit. Current agenda topics include cloud computing governance, the transformation of traditional IT, cloud computing optimization and exploring cloud storage technology.
