CIO Healthcare Summit Announces Content Committee

December 17, 2010 – The CIO Healthcare Summit team announced today the members of the event’s strategic Content Committee, a group of leading technology executives who will determine the topics to be discussed during the event.

The executive members of the 2011 Content Committee include:

- Dr. John Mattison, CMIO, Kaiser Permanente
- Scott Ranson, VP & CIO, Brookdale Senior Living
- Patrick Hale, CTO, Sparrow Health System
- Sri Bharadwaj, Director & SVP, IT, Molina Healthcare
- David Wanner, SVP & CIO, St Mary's of Michigan/Accession Health

“This year’s Content Committee includes representatives from some of the largest and most innovative healthcare organizations in the U.S. The level of expertise and leadership among this group of individuals will ensure that the CIO Healthcare Summit agenda is full of rich discussion topics and presentations, ensuring maximum ROI for our executive attendee audience,” said Mark Southam, Event Director, CIO Healthcare Summit.

In addition to participating in several conference calls prior to the event, the CIO Healthcare Summit Content Committee will also participate in a CIO Keynote Panel Discussion at the event, Innovation, Collaboration, and Value Creation in the Healthcare Community.

The CIO Healthcare Summit, April 3-6, 2011, will bring together more than 50 CIOs and healthcare IT executives to network and build positive relationships with their CIO peers. The event is an opportunity for attendees to have candid conversations, exchange ideas and discuss current projects as well as learn about the latest technology topics, IT trends, and technology solutions.
