Utilities Industry CIOs and IT Execs Invited to Speak at Upcoming Technology Event

February 9, 2011 – The CIO Utilities Summit team announced today that CIOs and senior IT executives are invited to speak at the upcoming event, June 12-14, 2011 at the InterContinental Montelucia Resort in Scottsdale, Arizona.

The CIO Utilities Summit is an opportunity for attending executives to network with their peers, attend in-depth educational sessions, and have candid conversations around current technology topics and trends affecting the utilities industry. Educational sessions at the event include keynote speeches, roundtable and panel discussions, and CIO Think Tanks.

Technology topics to be addressed at the event include optimizing and leveraging the smart grid, adopting cloud computing technology, addressing cyber security issues, and predictive analytics in asset management. Speaking and moderating opportunities at the CIO Utilities Summit allow attending executives to present research, share best practices and discuss recent IT projects in a relaxed, yet focused business setting.

“The CIO Utilities Summit is a great way for IT executives to establish themselves, their teams and their companies as technology thought leaders among a group of their peers. One of the goals of the event is to have executives leave with new ideas and solutions, and delegate speakers, as the IT end-users, are one way we make sure this happens,” said Ross Abbott, Event Director, CIO Utilities Summit.

If you are interested in speaking at the event, fill out the call for speakers form at <http://www.cioutilitiessummit.com/callforspeakers/>. For more information about the event and to view the full agenda, visit www.cioutilitiessummit.com.

If you would like to speak to someone directly about participating in the event, contact Ross Abbott, Event Director, CIO Utilities Summit, at ross.abbott@cdmmedia.com or 808-694-3661.
