CIO Utilities Summit Announces Latest Agenda Details

April 7, 2011 – The CIO Utilities Summit team announced today agenda details for the upcoming technology event, June 12-14, 2011 at the InterContinental Montelucia Resort in Scottsdale, Arizona.

The CIO Utilities Summit is an opportunity for attendees to have in-depth conversations, make new business contacts and learn about the latest technology solutions. The event brings together CIOs, IT executives, analysts and solution providers to attend interactive agenda sessions and discuss the latest technology topics and trends during think tanks, panel discussions, and roundtables as well as formal and informal networking opportunities.

Agenda titles at the CIO Utilities Summit:

- Adopting Cloud Technology: Public vs. Private Clouds
- Smart Grids - Cutting Through the Hype
- Addressing Cybersecurity Issues in the Utility Industry
- Imagining the Mobilized Utility
- Critical and Effective Communications for Utilities
- Leveraging the Smart Grid - Business Transformation on the Global Markets

“The CIO Utilities Summit agenda highlights the latest industry topics and trends, allowing attendees to leave the event with the latest information and enabling them to make better business decisions for their organizations,” said Christian Morato, Event Director, CIO Utilities Summit.
